

Simplify and align vendor sales tender processes in your Dynamics system.

If you are responsible for ensuring commercial success in your organization, you will recognize these issues:

“Our commercial team find that the administrative burden of preparing and issuing multiple tender responses can be too heavy, especially with repetitive tasks across them which impacts on productivity.”

“We often have to change the terms and conditions with each proposal we send in response to tender requests, depending on the customer or product in question. This takes time and can be prone to error.”

“We are drowning in documents and paperwork when we are responding to tenders. Management cannot easily see how we are progressing and what are the next steps in order to be competitive and on time.”
